The Telus Cup is a national midget hockey tournament. Five regional champions join the host team in a week-long marathon to crown the very best in Canada. In the first 43 years of the tournament, teams from six provinces have claimed a national title. Prince George is pleased to host the 2017 Telus cup.

The Telus Cup has been a starting point for hundreds of NHL careers; alumni of Canada's National Midget Championship include a trio of first-overall picks (Gord Kluzak, Wendel Clark, Sidney Crosby), and a who's-who of Canadian stars past and present – names like Brind'Amour, Drouin, Eberle, Francis, Letang, Roy, Sakic and Yzerman.
